Giving You the Best Service We Can

We want every experience you have with us to be an easy one so we work hard to give you a great service every time. But we know sometimes things go wrong. If they do, we want to hear about it so we can make it right, and stop it happening again.

If you do want to complain, we want to make it as easy as possible for you. But we know you'd probably prefer not to have to contact us at all. So we do whatever we can to make sure you don't have any reason to be unhappy. Here are just some of the things we do to make that happen:

We work hard to understand the reasons why customers contact us – we try to address those reasons so you don't have to get in touch:

- We have a scheme called Back on Track. This gives our frontline staff the ability to solve a problem on the spot, removing the need for you to get in touch after your journey. Some examples of when this may be used are: when catering is not available; to give pre-authorized confirmation that we will refund the costs of a taxi; to allow you to travel on a train other than the one you are booked to travel on; or for dry cleaning costs if a personal belonging has been spoiled as a result of something on our train/in our station.
- We make sure you can find the information you want quickly and easily
- We give our people the information, tools and training they need to answer your questions and resolve any problem on the spot
- If you do have to get in touch, we aim to put things right for you first time
- We're always looking for ways to improve our service, and working with our people and processes to make them a reality. To prove this commitment, we will produce a twice yearly Customer Report which will be available on our website or through our customer relations team.

In the meantime, we want to hear from you. If you tell us what went wrong, we can make sure it doesn't happen again.

Handling Complaints Fairly and Efficiently

Our complaint handling process not only makes it easy for you to tell us you're unhappy, but helps us to put things right for you as quickly and fairly as we can. Here's how:

- We will display this complaints handling process on our website www.tpexpress.co.uk and make it available at our stations
- We write everything clearly and in plain English so there's no room for confusion
- We investigate every complaint fully and fairly
- We keep your details confidential (see page 12) full details of our privacy policy are available on our website • We address every point you raise with us so you get a full reply
- We do everything we can to put things right for you first time
- We monitor and audit our responses to make sure they're of a high standard
- Our managers get regular updates about the complaints so we can make changes where we need to
- We review our complaints handling process every year to make sure it's effective

When A Third Party Is Involved

If your complaint involves another rail company or Network Rail, we'll send your complaint to them and ask them to get in touch. And we'll always let you know when we've done that.

If your complaint involves a journey that features more than one rail company, we will liaise with the other companies involved to ensure you receive a co-ordinated response. We sometimes work with third parties who can help us deliver one aspect of our service safely.

If your complaint involves one of those parties, you won't need to contact them directly. We will always deal with your complaint as if we provided the service for you.

How to Make a Complaint

If you're unhappy with any aspect of our service, there are several ways you can tell us.

Tell Our Staff at the Station or on the Train Straightaway

We train our staff to handle complaints fairly and efficiently, and to solve any problems there and then if they can and we provide a number of tools to enable this to happen.

If they can't, their manager or supervisor can help instead. That way, we can resolve everything for you as quickly as possible.

If you want your complaint to be formally recorded, or it involves a member of TPE staff and will require investigation into what happened, we will either provide one of our complaint forms or pass on your complaint to our Customer Relations Team directly.

Get in Touch With Our Customer Relations Team

If you don't tell our staff on the spot, you can get in touch with our Customer Relations Team, between 6am and 11pm every day except Christmas Day when we are closed and Boxing Day when we have reduced hours. Outside of these hours a recorded message will advise when the centre will be open. They'll be happy to help with your complaint. Here's how to contact them:

Call: 0345 600 1671

In addition, all TransPennine Express stations and stations that we call at provide copies of both our Complaint and Your Views forms. Once completed, these can be sent to our Customer Relations Team via our freepost address. Just ask a member of staff and they'll be happy to give you a copy.

Our Customer Relations Team's contact details can also be found on all of our major publications, prominently displayed at our stations, website and via our Facebook page or our Twitter feed.

Making a Complaint - What to Include

The more information you give us about your complaint, the sooner we can get back to you with a full reply. For example, please include things like:

- The time and date of your journeys
- The stations you travelled to and from
- The names of any staff involved if it is in regards to a staff complaint
- Copies of your tickets and any other documents that might help

Helping You Make a Complaint

You can ask a friend, family member, guardian, support worker or carer to make a complaint on your behalf although we will need your permission for us to deal with another person before we discuss the complaint. This does not apply if you are the parent or guardian of a child aged 16 or under.

What You Can Expect from Us

We work hard to handle complaints effectively. And we do everything we can to put things right for you. Here's what you can expect from us.

We'll Get Back to You Quickly

When you write to our Customer Relations team, we will acknowledge receipt of your complaint, and we know it's important to respond promptly, so we'll aim to send a full response within 5 working days.

If we need to ask for more information, or if part of your complaint is complex, we aim to get back to you within 20 working days.

If we can't get back to you within 20 working days, we'll get in touch to let you know the reason for the delay and will update you every 10 working days until we send a full response.

We also keep our website up to date with information about our average response times to complaints, and will tell Transport Focus, the Office of Rail and Road (ORR) and the Department for Transport (DfT) if we are consistently unable to meet our commitment to respond in 20 working days.

We'll Investigate Your Complaint Carefully

We will fully investigate every complaint appropriately. This could mean:

- Confirming the details of what happened
- Collecting evidence
- Interviewing any staff involved
- Finding out what should have been done differently
- Deciding on the appropriate response for you

Social Media

On social media, we handle various complaints on our main channels WhatsApp, Twitter and Facebook. If we're not able to resolve these complaints on the first contact or the customer wants to escalate them, we then signpost customers to our Customer Relations Team at <https://www.railhelp.co.uk/tpexpress/make-a-complaint>

If a customer requires an information on an existing complaint, we work closely with colleagues at the contact centre to provide updates where possible.

We'll Pay Compensation When it's Due

If your train is delayed or cancelled, you may be able to get compensation through our Delay Repay scheme. You can find out more on our website www.tpexpress.co.uk/contact-us/delay-repaycompensation or alternatively information is available in our Passenger's Charter which as well as being available on our website, can also be found at all of our stations.

If you complain about a delayed or cancelled train but haven't specifically requested compensation, we still will process a claim on your behalf and provide you with any compensation that may be due.

We look at each complaint individually so if we think you've had a particularly bad experience, that isn't covered by the Passenger's Charter, we may give you a gesture of goodwill to make up for it.

We reserve the right to terminate any correspondence or communication that could be construed as abusive or bullying in content, voluminous, frivolous or vexatious, or which specifically diverts resources and affects the customer relations area of the operation. Prior to taking this decision your case will be reviewed by a senior manager and we will always consult with the Rail Ombudsman, Transport Focus and the Office of Rail and Road before making any such decision and will advise you in writing of the reasons behind the decision. This will not affect your right to appeal to the Rail Ombudsman or Transport Focus and we will provide their details at the time the decision is made.

Taking Your Complaint Further

Please give us the opportunity to try to resolve your complaint. If you're unhappy with the response you receive, you have the right to appeal to the Rail Ombudsman. The Rail Ombudsman is there to help resolve complaints between us and our customers. It's free to use their services and they are independent of the rail industry. They don't take sides, but just look at the evidence available. They will help us both to try to reach an agreement, but if this doesn't happen, they will make a decision based on the evidence they've received. If you agree with their decision, then we have to act on what they say.

You can appeal to the Rail Ombudsman if:

- You're unhappy with our final response to your complaint which will be contained in a letter or email (sometimes called a 'deadlock letter'); or
- We haven't resolved your complaint within 40 working days of receiving it; and
- No more than 12 months have passed since we sent you our final response.

There are some complaints that the Rail Ombudsman won't be able to look into, for example if it's about the way one of our services has been designed, industry policy, or if your complaint relates to an event which took place before the Rail Ombudsman service was established. If that's the case, then they'll contact you to let you know. If possible, they will transfer your complaint to another organisation that may be able to help you further, such as Transport Focus, the independent consumer watchdog for the rail industry. They will independently review your complaint and where appropriate, follow things up on your behalf.

How We deal with Complaints and Complaints Data

Improving Our Service

We know that the needs of communities and our customers change and we want to carry on living up to your expectations, and our own high standards.

So when you get in touch with us with a complaint or some feedback, we record all the details – good and bad. We share your comments with the relevant areas of the business in daily, weekly and monthly reports. They go to the managers and senior managers responsible, as well as our directors.

The reports help us work out where we can improve, and what changes we need to make to give our customers a great service. That's why we're always happy to hear from you.

We will:

- Use the complaint data to identify the root causes of complaints
- Take action to reduce the chance of a similar issue happening again
- Regularly review our performance when dealing with complaints to improve how we deal with them We will also provide data to the Office of Rail and Road on the number of comments and complaints we receive and how quickly we deal with them.

Recording Complaints

All complaints, and any other comments, are recorded on our Customer Relationship Management (CRM) system against a set of categories that cover every aspect of the service we provide. This data is collated centrally and used to generate a number of daily, weekly and monthly reports that are passed to the managers responsible for that area of the business so trends can be identified and problems resolved.

Further high level reports on TransPennine Express complaint data is made available to both the senior managers and board of directors within the business and used to contribute to high level governance and accountability for the service provided.

Each complaint made to us is important and valuable feedback on the service we have provided and feeds into an internal continuous improvement approach which seeks to identify the underlying causes of customer dissatisfaction. Each area of TransPennine Express meets regularly to review performance and to plan for the future, accurate complaint data contributes to this process. TransPennine Express complaint data is also shared with the Office of Rail and Road (ORR) on a periodic basis

Record Keeping

All complaints are recorded along with general information that helps us identify areas of improvement. They include:

- Journey information such as where the journey began and ended
- The date of travel
- The class of travel
- The type of ticket held
- The date of the journey
- The name of the advisor who dealt with the complaint
- The date we received the complaint, and the date we responded.

When recording complaint data, the contact details, and any information that could identify the complainant is not included.

Staff complaints

All complaints regarding a TransPennine Express member of staff are recorded on our CRM system and a full report of the passenger's experience, along with any other supporting evidence is made available to their line manager as soon as possible so an investigation can take place. This may, where appropriate, include CCTV.

Due to staff confidentiality we won't share the results of any disciplinary action that may, or may not have taken place as a result of the complaint.

We will also not discuss any staff complaints on any public Social Media forums.

Training

All customer facing TransPennine Express staff receive training in how to identify and resolve customer complaints. An ability and empathy to do so also forms part of our recruitment process and is embedded into the customer focused culture within the company.

We commit to ensuring all TransPennine Express staff, including any staff working on our behalf, are aware of our Complaints Handling Procedure and know how to direct complaints to the Customer Relations Team. Our Customer Relations Teams receive extensive training regarding how to identify a complaint, how to ensure each issue raised with us within that complaint is accurately recorded on our Customer Relationship Management system and how to resolve the complaint to the passenger's satisfaction.

Quality assurance

We regularly monitor our Complaints Handling Process to make sure it is as effective as possible and adheres to the standards and commitments we have made to our customers.

All calls to our Customer Relations Team are recorded and monitored to make sure we are dealing with complaints in the best way possible. The Customer Relations Manager regularly reviews a sample of both calls and correspondence sent to our Customer Relations Team.

Each Customer Support advisor has their work monitored each month against a Quality Assurance framework to make sure our high standards are maintained. When appropriate additional training and coaching is provided.

We also survey passengers who have used our Customer Support service to see how satisfied they were with the process, and outcome of their complaint.
